CHARADES

RULES

- Invite all the players to a zoom meeting and have them all keep their video feed on.
- Split into two groups with equal number of team players.
- Choose the team that goes first.
- One person from the team chooses a word and the rest of the team tries to guess it.
- The second team sets a timer and the game starts.
- The actor must act out the word using facial expressions and actions, but without saying a single word.
- The team can ask the actor questions and they can not or shake their head yes or no.
- They can guess as many times, by shouting out their guesses.
- If they guess right, they get a point; if not, no point is awarded.
- The second team now chooses a player and on it goes.
